Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 7/17/2006 has been entered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

Claim 10 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter. The geometric figure itself is not considered as a useful process in order to have any functional utilities. The drawing per se as claimed is considered as an abstract design figure; thus, it is not statutory. Furthermore, the abstract drawing should not be applied for Utility Patent because it does not meet the statutory conditions.

The examiner believes that the claim is not for a practical application that produces a useful result, the examiner does not find such a practical application, the examiner has determined that the claim is nonstatutory.

In determining whether the claim is for a “practical application,” the focus is not on whether the steps taken to achieve a particular result are useful, tangible and concrete, but rather that the final result achieved by the claimed invention is “useful, tangible and concrete.”

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claim 10 is rejected as failing to define the invention in the manner required by 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph.

The claim(s) are narrative in form and replete with indefinite and functional or operational language. The structure that goes to make up the device must be clearly and positively specified. The structure must be organized and correlated in such a manner as to present a complete operative device. The claim(s) must be in one sentence form only. Note the format of the claims in the patent(s) cited.

Claim 10 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite in that it fails to point out what is included or excluded by the claim language. This claim is an omnibus type claim.

Claim 10 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 10 lacks to disclose the invention features and the claims should not be solely based on drawing.

Examiner's comments:

From the amendment filed on 2/14/2006 by application, there is no attempt to correct the issues raised either in the final office action or last advisory action. Thus, Examiner maintains the same ground of rejections under 35 U.S.C. 101, 35 U.S.C. 112 second paragraph.

An examination of this application reveals that applicant is unfamiliar with patent prosecution procedure. While an inventor may prosecute the application, lack of skill in this field usually acts as a liability in affording the maximum protection for the invention disclosed. Applicant is advised to secure the services of a registered patent attorney or agent to prosecute the application, since the value of a patent is largely dependent upon skilled preparation and prosecution. The Office cannot aid in selecting an attorney or agent. A listing of registered patent attorneys and agents is available on the USPTO Internet web site <http://www.uspto.gov> in the Site Index under "Attorney and Agent Roster." Applicants may also obtain a list of registered patent attorneys and agents located in their area by writing to the Mail Stop OED, Director of the U. S. Patent and Trademark Office, PO Box 1450, Alexandria, VA 22313-1450.

During examination of this application, it appears to Examiner that Applicant does not seem to clearly distinguish the difference between the Utility patent and Design patent. The application appears to be more proper to file as the design patent rather than utility patent. In general, the utility patent must at least satisfy the 35 U.S.C. 101 and 35 U.S.C. 112 second paragraph. 35 U.S.C. 101 states that "Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title." Applicant's design of Cool Wave is abstract and ornamental article look design. Thus, it does not meet the requirement of 35 U.S.C. 101 statutory. The definition of Design patent is following:

The design patent could be applied for the invention, which is new, original and ornamental design for an article of manufacture.

Applicant's Cool Wave could be belonging to ornamental design.

In a design patent application, the subject matter, which is claimed, is the design embodied in or applied to an article of manufacture (or portion thereof) and not the article itself. In addition, it is not to the design of an article, but to the design for an article, and is inclusive of ornamental designs of all kinds including surface ornamentation as well as configuration of goods." In re Zahn, 617 F.2d 261,204 USPQ 988 (CCPA 1980).

The design for an article consists of the visual characteristics embodied in or applied to an article. Since a design is manifested in appearance, the subject matter of a design patent application may relate to the configuration or shape of an article, to the surface ornamentation applied to an article, or to the combination of configuration and surface ornamentation.

Design is inseparable from the article to which it is applied and cannot exist alone merely as a scheme of surface ornamentation. It must be a definite, preconceived thing, capable of reproduction and not merely the chance result of a method.

Examiner's note: The art rejection may not apply to the claim invention, because of existing ambiguities in the claimed invention.
